How Secure is Your Money?

One Of Canada's Largest Banks Reminds Us Of The Dangers Of A Cashless Society. CIBC reported a "systems issue" that prevented customers from logging in to their accounts online for the entire business day. CIBC, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, is one of the five biggest banks in Canada. Yesterday just happened to be the day that people receiving welfare, unemployment benefits, social insurance payments (like American social security), Canada pension payments, and disability payments landed in the accounts of recipients. Customers could still use

ATMs and Point-of-Sale features but were unable to log into their accounts to check balances, transfer money, or make online payments. The sentiments of normally patient Canadians online were tense. The system was restored around 8 pm last night but that wasn't soon enough for people who wanted to pay their bills by the due date or make business transactions. Ironically, this online banking catastrophe occurred a day after Victor Dodig, the CEO of CIBC, predicted that nearly all transactions would soon be taking place online. (prophecynewswatch.com 10/3)

The Arch of Baal, Washington, DC

Coincidence?
Arch of Baal Erected In DC One Day Before Kavanaugh and Ford Testified Before Congress. Is it just a coincidence that the “Arch of Baal” was erected in Washington D.C. on the exact same week that Brett Kavanaugh and Christine Ford are testifying before Congress? Many believe that it is quite odd that this ancient pagan symbol has been put up at this precise moment in time. According to the official website of the Institute for Digital Archaeology, the Arch of Palmyra was unveiled on the National Mall on September 26th, and it will remain there until September 29th. The reproduction has been periodically displayed at important locations around the globe and is a “gateway”, many believe, to the entity or entities that were originally associated with this arch. Perhaps this is all just a “giant coincidence”, but things of this importance usually don’t happen by accident. The elite deeply understand that symbols have power, and the fact that the Arch of Baal has been placed directly across from the U.S. Capitol is highly significant.

Ritualistic Baal worship at the Temple of Baal in Palmyra, Syria, in sum, looked a little like this: Adults would enter and leave the temple through the Arch of Baal and gather around the altar. Infants would then be burned alive as a sacrificial offering to the deity. Amid horrific screams and the stench of charred human flesh, congregants, men and women alike, would engage in bisexual orgies. The ritual of convenience was intended to produce economic prosperity by prompting Baal to bring rain for the fertility of “mother earth.” The natural consequences of such behavior, pregnancy and childbirth, and the associated financial burdens of “unplanned parenthood” were easily offset. One could either choose to engage in homosexual conduct or, with child sacrifice available on demand, could simply take part in another fertility ceremony to “terminate” the unwanted child. Modern liberalism deviates little from its ancient predecessor. While its macabre rituals have been sanitized with flowery and euphemistic terms of art, its core tenets and practices remain eerily similar. (freedomoutpost.com 9/30)

House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Ed Royce (R-CA) and ranking member Eliot Engel (D-NY), both longtime advocates for the protection of global cultural heritage, jointly unveiled a reconstruction of Syria’s iconic Triumphal Arch on the National Mall today. As Mr Engel said during the 45-minute ceremony: “When you look at this beautiful Arch, we are seeing through the eyes of ancient civilizations, and to have it right here, set against the classical columns of the Capitol, is really extraordinary.” digitalarchaeology.org.uk/washington-dc

Germany Is Rising. Two Politico jour-

The article refers to the possibility that Germany may drop its bid for the presidency of the European Central Bank and instead pursue the presidency of the European Commission, a post Germany has not held since 1967. This course of action might cause less of a political backlash and could give Germany more influence in Europe. Germany is Europe’s wealthiest and most populous nation. (twnews&prophecy.com 9/14)
